SLAAS

The school aims to cater to students with niche interests by offering specific and group programs to effectively interact with the social world and solve today's issues. Political Science, Economics, Psychology, Sociology, and Commerce are the major streams of the School of Social Sciences.

Political Science

Political Science touches upon the various aspects and systems of governance, international affairs, global politics, economics, psychology, etc. If your interest lies in understanding the government functions and political climate of the country then this is the course for you.

Economics

Dealing with econometrics, theories, statistics, inflation, demand and supply, this program is designed to test and hone the analytical and reasoning skills of the students.

The opportunities under this programme are aplenty where the graduates are sought after in branches like government, business, finance and academics

Psychology

Mental health and wellness has been widely spoken in recent years. This is the perfect programme for you if subjects like human behaviour, mental health, mind, etc. excites you. There are opportunities in various sectors such as Education, Civil Service, Medicine, Research, Counselling Services, HR etc.

Sociology

This programme focuses on the influences of individuals and groups of the society, and the factors that affect our thought process and daily functions in the society. This subject is instrumental in understanding the modern world, factors that shape our society and human behaviour. Opportunities such as Welfare Rights Advisor, Social Researcher, Counsellor, etc. are available.

Commerce

The Department of Commerce aims at producing culture-conscious, development oriented, socially responsible and committed Commerce professionals. The students realize their creative potential and sharpen their skills in the field of commerce.
